About the course

This course will help you explore the writer's toolbox from simile to suspense with the intention of producing original work of your own. If you have a lively interest in reading, a desire to write and to share your work, then come and join this workshop to participate in practical exercises and receive supportive tutor-led critical feedback. Suitable for beginners as well as more experienced writers. A number of Janni's previous students have had their work published as a result of attending her courses.

Please note there will be no class in the week commencing 13 November due to the Kendal Mountain festival.

What will the course cover and how will it be taught?

During the course you will learn to:

- Explore the craft of creative writing in the context of a highly supportive workshop
- Complete exercises that aim to raise your awareness of elements of poetry and prose in order to achieve the clear understanding of techniques which will equip you to practise writing as a skill

- Learn to confront the blank page confidently with a genuine ability to redraft work on your own
 - Learn to use some technical language to discuss your own and other people's creative writing critically
- The classes will be a mixture of tutor led discussion, analysis of examples, peer review and the completion of class and individual exercises

Tutor led demonstrations, discussion, example work and handouts will guide you through the process.

What do I need to bring with me?
